Newsy Notes

Britain finds it has the largest number of workers in jobs since 1929. The Ministry of Labor's figures show that on May 11 the total number of insured persons employed, outside of agriculture and domestic service was 10,187,000. This was an improvement of 47,000 in a month, and $56,000 better than two years ago. It left 2,990,000 still unemployed. British employment situation has been difficult ever since the World War—But today the nation sees hope of absorbing all those to whom a job will seem like dreams come true.

The U.S. Treasury finds itself doing a huge business in old gold watches. Also gold chains, wedding rings, spectacle rims, dental scrap and gold medals pour into the stream that floods the melting pots. The Treasury's price of $35 an ounce, against the former price of $20.67, and its recent reduction of the purchase minimum from five ounces to one ounce explain the activity. A new domestic game develops—Many a household grows excited in digging up useless keepsakes to be turned into useful money.

Ford Shows Boston Boy His Exhibits
White Big Business Cool Head
Chicago:—A 10 year old boy from Boston, Mass. took precedence over a half dozen executives at the world's fair recently when he was taken on a tour of the new Ford exhibit by Mr. Henry Ford himself.

The boy was Geoffrey Berman and Mr. Ford, hatless and coatless, came upon the youth at the large exhibit. They struck up an acquaintanceship and Mr. Ford proceeded to guide him around. Soon other boys joined the impromptu tour and it became a pilgrimage with Mr. Ford leading the way.

Meanwhile, secretaries of the Detroit auto leader caught up with their superior and reminded him of previous engagements with men high in the world of business and finance. Mr. Ford, pleaded one, you're not going to get any place today "some like this. We can secure books for these boys and they can get all the statistics out of them.

"I'll give the statistics myself," was his reply. The boys came first. We don't need to be afraid of anything in this country if we train our boys right. I don't get a chafe like this very often. Come on boys. What did you say, Geoffrey?

It was left to the secretaries to do the explaining to these waiting.

FATHERS' DAY

Father, Vater, Père, according to your nationality and to thousands of little childish hearts, Daddy. Daddy, that wonderful being who can lift you up higher than his arms, else when he swings you in his arms, Daddy, those who can always fix a broken engine and make the train go again; who can make the best whistles when on a picnic and who knows the best places to fish; the one who can thrill our hearts with stories of the baseball and hockey heroes—in short the pinnacle of all virtues. Later as the years slip by and problems arise it is Dad, then who always sees us through, who always has the understanding advice to give; who can always find some excuse for us when one is needed. It is he who both by precept and example gives us our standard of life. It is he that unconsciously and unconsciously we use as a yard stick in later contacts in life. It is his name we bear and his tradition that we strive to emulate. It is he who plans for us the unrealized dreams of his own youth.

Unfortunately, in this sorry scheme of things, many of the fathers who are unworthy of the name. Could they but know the thrill of a little child's hand put trustingly in theirs, the thrill of a great, large, wondering eyes looking up into theirs, the thrill of showing a youthful mind some of the things of this world, how quickly they would mend their way. Nothing in the world is as sweet, as spontaneous, as unselfish as the affection of a child. They give themselves so loyally, so unreservedly and are so wonderfully forgiving of any wrongs that have been done to them.

And then a word for the fathers whose voice has been stifled. Let us strive to be worthy of the sacrifices they have made for us. Let us so live, that if it be, that they do see us now, that we may fulfill some of the dreams and desires they had for us; that in fulfilling some of their wishes our own loneliness may be comforted by the thought that we are doing it for them. Let us take up the torch they have lit and carry on their ideals.

CANADA LIKELY TO IMPORT WHEAT

Last winter the province of Ontario experienced the coldest weather in generations. The thermometer ranged away below zero for weeks on end. This resulted in widespread damage to the wheat crop (Ontario grows winter wheat almost exclusively) and now millers are faced with a decided shortage of soft wheat for pastry flour, thus the saving paradox appear that Canada which supplies around 20,000,000 bushels of wheat having to import some. It is probable that Great Britain or Australia will be called upon to fill the deficiency as this wheat can come into Canada free of duty while importations from any other country, including the United States just across the line from Ontario, is 50c a bushel.

Canadian Millers Alarmed
It is reported that Canadian millers are alarmed at the possibility of increased imports of soft wheat. Flour into Canada. The damage to the Ontario winter crop has raised prices materially. Last week in Toronto, Ontario wheat was quoted at $1.12 a bushel. Australian flour milled from wheat costing 65c a bushel threatens to take considerable portion of the Canadian market for soft wheat. Last year Canada took 16,202 barrels of flour from Australia and 24,211 barrels of flour from the United Kingdom.

Comments on Marketing Bill
The whole tenor of Canada's economic life is being rapidly and permanently altered in the House of Commons this month, by the gradual hammering into shape of the Marketing Bill which will, we prophesy, be regarded by future historians as the most important achievement of the Bennett Government. The ultimate result of the bill will be the setting up of a species of guild socialism, by the conferring upon the various local and provincial boards of the enormous powers vested in the Dominion Board and capable of being delegated to its agencies. Once set up, that system may be modified in more or less important respects, but we do not anticipate that it will ever be abandoned. Another notable revolution, which will have been effected in Canada by the party whose shibboleth is detestation of all revolutions.

President Roosevelt tells Congress he is at work on a vast plan to enhance the security of the private citizen. His message says that the proposals to be laid before Congress session have three great objectives: security of the home, security of life, and security of social insurance. He calls these a minimum of the promise that can be offered to the American people. He will attempt to adjust the population by finding means for removing hundreds of thousands of families from farm lands that will not support them to lands that will. He will further carry the plan of financing building of homes. Old age and unemployment insurance are part of the security scheme, in which he envisages the Federal Government co-operating with the states—recovery and construction, he holds must go forward together.

W. Leach, K.C., chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway declared in a recent speech advocating unification for the administrative purposes of the two major railways.

LIME-WATER PREPARATION FOR PRESERVING EGGS

—(O)—

Recommended by Dept. of Agric.

Lime water is prepared by slaking freshly burnt quick lime, thinning with water to the consistency of cream and further diluting, with constant stirring, to the desired volume. The resultant lime water may be used at once—without setting—or as allowed to stand for an hour or so and the clear upper liquid poured off from the deposit of undissolved (excess) lime. By following these directions and using quick lime at the rate of 1 pound to 5 gallons of water, a saturated lime water will be prepared suitable and satisfactory for the preservation of eggs. If quick lime is not obtainable, slaked lime (hydrated lime) as used in the preparation of Bordeaux mixture may be used.

The eggs previously placed in a crock, water tight barrel or other suitable receptacle, are covered with the lime water. Cover the container and store in a cool place.

glass, chemically known as silicate of soda, is readily obtainable from drug stores and grocers, being sold in both liquid and solid form. It has been extensively experimented with, using solutions varying in strength from 2 to 10 per cent, is 2 pounds to 10 pounds per gallon of water; a 5 per cent solution has given better results than stronger solutions. It is readily soluble and no special directions for preparing the preservative solution are necessary.

—(O)—

CRATE FEED POULTRY

—(O)—

There is a brisk demand for Canadian dressed poultry in the British Market and recent shipments from the Dominion have created a good impression. A recent issue of the official organ of the British wholesale stated: "What Canadian poultry we have had this year packed under Dominion Government supervision and grading have been all that could be desired in all respects, and next season our markets will be able to take any quantities that can be put up. If the Canadian shippers will only let the buyers know early in the season what quantities they can safely ship, it is certain that after this season early contracts will be made with large buyers in Britain, especially with grade A and B birds."

The quality of Canadian dressed poultry shipped from Ottawa district was known in the Old Country 25 years ago, for C.F. McArthur, a merchant of Russell, Ontario, who then was known as "the poultry raiser and buyer at Kemora, Ontario, made two large shipments, the first of 800 birds and the second of 1,000 birds which were sold on the Glasgow market at a price that netted him a very satisfactory return. From then, until the present, Mr. McArthur has been buying and selling poultry and he believes that if farmers will carefully grade their birds so as to get quality they will find a ready market for all their produce. In his opinion one of the principal faults of the farmer in the Ottawa district, at least, is that they are losing by not properly finishing their products for market. Mr. McArthur says that the most money he has made since he has been in business has come from poultry. Long before grading of dressed poultry was established by the Dominion Department of Agriculture he adopted it and did all he could to encourage farmers to adopt it. From the time he started in the business, his object has been to demonstrate to farmers that it pays well to produce only quality products; or to give service. The local poultry pools which have recently been organized would, according to Mr. McArthur, be well advised to organize a crate feeding system among the farmers. Let them know there is money for good quality poultry; that the market is glutted with poor stuff; that they must work and work hard, and give service, if they want to succeed. "I have never seen the time when I could not sell good, well fed, properly prepared birds" he said. "Let one farmer in a locality show what can be done in this direction and he will induce the others to emulate him. It is leadership that is wanted, and if the pools will recognize this they have hope of success, not otherwise."

In the death of Mr. Dan McDonald in Calgary Wednesday another of the early settlers in Alberta has passed on. Mr. McDonald came to Alberta from Woodstock, Ont. in 1884. He was manager of an hotel in Leduc for a number of years, and later in 1902 purchased the farm in the Strathmore district where he lived until illness necessitated his removal to Calgary.
